POLITICS HOLDS SWAY AGAIN AT COURTHOUSE

Long Announces He Won't Seek 3rd Term as Sheriff; Chief Deputy to Run.

HOUT SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Lutz Will Be Candidate For Prosecutor; Marriott Has Eye on Probate Court.

Politics played an important role at the courthouse today with the formal announcement of several candidacies and the decision of Sheriff E P. Long that he will not run for a third term.

The sheriff's statement left the way open for his chief deputy, Frank E. Robinson, who said he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for sheriff in the May primary.

Also entering the field today was Ray Hout who will see reelection on the Democratic ticket as county commissioner. Guy Stewart, the other commissioner whose term expires this year, was expected to follow Hout in announcing he will be in the race again at the May primary.

Ends Speculation.

Sheriff Long's announcement ended speculation at the courthouse as to his stahd on a third term. He declined, however, to comment on his plans for the future.

While he has not taken out petitions, Harold T. Lutz, assistant prosecutor, is definitely a candidate for prosecutor to succeed G. W. Marriott who is expected to run for probate judge. Lutz and Marriott also are Democrats.

Probate Judge C. J. Anderson said previously that he will not be a candidate for re-election, but has not revealed his plans. He has been mentioned as a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the 17th district.

So far only four Republicans have been mentioned as candidates for county offices, and two of them are still undecided about their plans.

Seek G. O. P. Nomination.

Attys. Robert J. Nichols and Raymond J. Brown, both of Mansfield are circulating petitions for the nomination for prosecutor on the Republican ticket. Theodore Lutz, Shelby law director, may enter the race with Attys. Nichols and Brown.

Atty. Stuart H. Cramer, Republican, is considering the probate judge post, but he has not officially announced his candidacy.

Charles Payne, deputy county treasurer, is seeking the Democratic nomination for treasurer, while Harry Maxwell, Lexington, a Republican, will run again for state representative. He was edged out two years ago by Ralph Lutz, also of Lexington

ADMITS SLAYING

Man Says Mother-In-Law Nagged Him to Get Job.

CHICAGO—(AP)—"The old lady nagged me all the time because I didn't have a job. I hit her on the head with a hammer."

Thus, reported Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, did Samuel De Lao explain the slaying of Mrs. Nellie Sharp, 65, whose body was found crammed in a trunk yesterday.

Sullivan said De Lao, who is 49, confessed the crime last night after eight hours of questioning.

De Lao said he was the husband of Mrs. Sharp's daughter, Cleota, 40. All three occupied the same flat, living on Mrs. Sharp's earnings as a hotel maid. De Lao said he had been dismissed from a WPA job.

Sullivan said De Lao admitted killing the woman during a quarrel Thursday morning, placing the body in the trunk and hauling it to an alley a mile away.

TAFT AIDE DIES

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — Charles Nagel, secretary of commerce and labor in President Taft's cabinet, died here yesterday at the age of 90.

Miss Lindsay was en route to Chicago when the tragedy occurred.

CLAIMS SCHWAB DIED 'POOR MAN'

Pittsburgh Paper Says Steel Magnate's Vast Fortunes 'Withered Away.'

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH — Steelmaster Charles M. Schwab, a multi-millionaire for 40 years, is said by the Post-Gazette to have died "a poor man."

"His wealth had withered away," reported the newspaper. "Former business associates of Mr. Schwab, young members of the group that Andrew Carnegie gathered about him, have discussed for weeks the disappearance of the once vast Schwab fortune."

No accounts have been filed by executors of Schwab's will, which was probated in New York where he died on Sept. 18. The Post-Gazette said it would be months before first accounting could be made.

Agents of the Pennsylvania revenue department reported they had been unable to locate personal or real property in this state belonging to Schwab. A magnificent estate maintained by the steel magnate at Loretto, Pa, belonged to Mrs. Schwab who left her husband a life interest and then bequested it to relatives.

Authorities in Cambria county, Pennsylvania, where Schwab's holdings once totaled millions, likewise found no trace of his former property, the newspaper said.

Schwab's great country estate at Loretto, Cambria county, had been carried in his wife's name for several years and had been disposed of in her will. Schwab had been left a life interest in the estate which went to relatives when he died.

Mrs. David Barry, sister of Schwab, who is living in the palatial home, refused to discuss the matter.

COLD RELAXES GRIP ON OHIO, RELIEF ON WAY

Slightly Warmer Weather Due Over Week-End; Zero's Low Mark In Mansfield.

FRIGID WAVE MOVES EAST

Most of State Except Lake Region Reports Below Zero Readings.

Friday		Saturday
10 a. m.	2 below	6 a. m.	zero
4 p. m.	3 above	9 a. m.	2 above
8 p. m.	10 above	noon	11 above

The cold which failed to live up to the weatherman's predictions yesterday was relaxing its grip on Ohio and the middlewest today and some relief was in prospect for the week-end

After reaching a low of zero about 6 a. m. today in Mansfield, the mercury started to move upward and by noon reached 11 above. The lowest reading in Mansfield yesterday was two degrees below zero at 10 a. m.

Slightly warmer weather was due to spread over Ohio and other midwestern states today and Sunday as the frigid wave moves eastward to the Atlantic seaboard.

R. C. Mize, Cleveland meteorologist, said there is "some hope for higher temperatures tomorrow" and added that "it looks like we are done with snow in Ohio for a while."

Mercury Rises At Night.

An unusual weather condition sent the mercury up to 10 above at 8 p. m. last night, highest reading of the day. A blizzard swept the city in the afternoon with the mercury rising after the brief storm.

All of Ohio except the lake region had sub-zero or zero weather last night. Columbus reported four below, Cincinnati had three below while Cleveland was the "warmest" of the major cities with 12 above. Cleveland had a low of five above, however, before noon yesterday.

The center of the cold wave moved directly eastward and Maryland and Pennsylvania had their coldest night of the winter. Hagerstown, Md., had three below zero at midnight.

Northern New York state had bitter cold with Lake Placid reporting 21 below and heavy snow There was a 20-inch snowfall at Grayling, Mich., and the lower peninsula reported sub-zero mercury readings at a number of points. The upper peninsula had temperatures above 20 degrees, unusual for January in that section.

The week of extreme cold had caused the Ohio river to freeze from bank to bank today from Pittsburgh to Gallipolis and it was three-quarters full of heavy ice westward from Pittsburgh.

Engineers warned all boats on the river to "get to shore and stay there," predicting the worst ice conditions in 22 years unless the weather moderates soon.

OK'S JACKSON

Subcommittee Approves Him As Attorney General.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt's nomination of Robert H. Jackson to be attorney general won approval from a senate judiciary subcommittee today in less than five minutes.

Senator King (D., Utah), chairman of the group, moved approval and other senators agreed without discussion. The action was taken without hearings being held.

Subject to confirmation by the senate, Jackson, now solicitor general, will succeed to the attorney generalship when Frank Murphy, also subject to senate confirmation, goes to the supreme court.

Another judiciary subcommittee has yet to act on the Murphy nomination but prompt approval is expected.

Southern Dems Rally Aid for Trade Pacts

Harrison to Lead New Deal's Fight In Senate, Doughton to Push for Cause In House; Scrap Starts Next Week.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Southern Democratic members of congress, who have been frequently assailed within the party as conservative and anti-New Deal, today loomed as the administration's bulwark of strength in the battle for extension of the reciprocal trade treaty act.

Senator Pat Harrison (D., Miss.), chairman of the senate finance committee, who was defeated for senate leader after President Roosevelt announced his support of Senator Alben Barkley, has assumed senate leadership in the administration's battle.

Chairman Robert Doughton (D., N. C.) of the ways and means committee, supported by many southern Democrats, will lead the house fight for continuation of the controversial act. The house leaders include Rep. E. E. Cox (D., Ga.), frequently assailed by New Deal members for his anti-administration attitude on legislation.

The battle will open on Jan. 11 when Secretary of State Hull appears before the ways and means committee to urge extension of his power to conclude the reciprocal trade treaties for three years.

Democratic members of the committee, at a secret conference, agreed to speed hearings so that the legislation can be brought into the house in February.

Chief opposition to the trade treaties came from New England and from agricultural areas of the west and southwest.

While Senator Bennett Clark (D) Missouri, who bitterly fought the Roosevelt supreme court plan, will fight for the treaties in the senate, New Deal senators from Florida and Texas and other western states are expected to battle the extension bill.

Republicans plan to demand either senate ratification or ratification of trade treaties by both branches of congress. House Republicans may decide this point in their battle on the treaties at a conference next week.

MOTHER SLAIN

Killed by Ax Blows While Baby Sleeps In Home.

ABERDEEN, Wash.—(UP)—Mrs. Dick Law, wife of a Grays Harbor county CIO millworkers' union official, was brutally slain at the home of her parents last night while her infant daughter slept soundly and unharmed in an upstairs room.

Dr. John W. Stevenson, county coroner, said Mrs. Law's skull had been smashed, apparently by a double-bitted axe. Such a weapon, blood-covered, was found near the house by investigating officers.

The coroner said the house showed evidence of a violent struggle. He said Mrs. Law's body was found lying in the living room surrounded by overturned furniture and other signs of disorder. After killing Mrs. Law, her assailants ransacked the dwelling

Dr. Stevenson said it had not yet been determined if anything was missing.

READY TO FIGHT, RUMANIA WARNS

King Carol Tells Reds Nation Will Resist Attempts to Invade Bessarabia.

(By Associated Press)

CHISINAU, Rumania — King Carol served a strong warning to Soviet Russia today that Rumania will fight "as one living wall" if Russian armies attempt to invade Bessarabia.

Speaking after reviewing a huge parade of troops, planes and tanks at Chisinau (Kishinev), capital of Bessarabia, 12 miles from the Russian border, the king insisted Bessarabia "will always remain Rumanian by the force of our arms."

General George Argesanu, commander of the third army corps, told the crowd which assembled at the governor's palace to hear the king that the "whole army from the first man to the last is ready to defend the eastern border."

Russian, Ukranian and German minority leaders of Bessarabia—which was Russian until the World war settlement — publicly swore allegiance for themselves and their followers to King Carol and Rumania. Russia never has recognized Rumanian sovereignty over Bessarabia

"We pledge our lives for our beloved Rumanian fatherland," they declared.

As he reviewed the troops, King Carol was flanked by Premier George Tatarescu, Crown Prince Mihai and the ministers of war, navy and air.

DRIVER, 76, HURT AS CAR CRASHES

Bucyrian's Auto Rams Into Bridge; Condition Serious.

BUCYRUS—George Brown, 76, of nearby Lemert, was in City hospital today with both knee caps fractured and serious bruises as the result of an accident yesterday afternoon on Route 19.

Brown was driving to Bucyrus to have repairs made to his car when he crashed into the end of a bridge five miles northwest of here. He was alone in the car and lay helpless in the wrecked marchine for about 20 minutes before aid arrived. Aaron Young, northwest of Bucyrus, a passing autoist, took Brown to the hospital.

Hospital employes said his condition was serious.

Order Replaces Military Chief

Hore-Belisha, Secretary of War, Leaves While Conservative Takes Portfolio; British Press Calls for Complete Airing In House of Commons.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—A parliamentary inquiry into the removal of Leslie Hore-Belisha as Great Britain's secretary of state for war was demanded by the British press today as England staggered under the impact of an entirely unexpected cabinet shake-up.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—New ministers took over the portfolios of war and information in the British cabinet today in a politically-sensational shakeup reputedly designed to silence internal dissent in one department and press criticism of the other.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, ruddy, rotund secretary of state for war, who gained fame by brushing many cobwebs of tradition from the army hierarchy, was replaced last night by the conservative Oliver Stanley, president of the board of trade.

Sir John Reith, chairman of Imperial Airways, succeeded a fellow-Scot, Lord MacMillan, as minister of information; and Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, an attorney and banker, was chosen to head the board of trade.

Editorials called for explanation in a full-dress debate in the house of commons. Liberal and Labor members of parliament also registered indignation.

Hore-Belisha's policy of promoting younger officers over the heads of older ones was said to have contributed to his failure to get along with Lord Gort, head of the British expeditionary force in France and himself one of the younger men whom Hore-Belisha had advanced to high position.

The 43-year-old minister's advocacy of a unified command on the western front under the French General Maurice Gustave Gamelin was reported to have received scant support from his officers. He was said to have encountered opposition of Air Minister Sir Kingley Wood when he urged a single command for the air force and army in France.

Wanted Posts Switched.

Although these undercurrents never swept into the open, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was reported, in order to preserve peace in the government, to have asked Hore-Belisha to take Stanley's board of trade job, but Hore-Belisha refused—his letter of resignation said "for reasons I gave you verbally."

WARNING: Duce Set to Act If Reds Peril Balkans, Paper Says

(By International News Service)

ROME—In his strongest declaration since outbreak of the Russo-Finnish war, Premier Mussolini, through his official press spokesman, today warned the Soviet Union that any invasion of the Balkans would find Italy ready to respond "in the proper manner."

Il Duce made known his attitude through Virginio Gayda, editor of the official newspaper Giornale D'Italia, who went to Venice to report on the arrival of Hungary's foreign minister, Count Stephen Csaky, for a series of vital conferences.

Gayda's article reaffirmed Italy's staunch interest in preservation of the Balkan status quo, despite the recent declaration of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano that this nation did not intend to act as single-handed guardian of Balkin interests.

"Italy," Gayda wrote, "is not motivated by any aggressive plans against Russia.

"Her intention only is to check the expansion of Communism and its various types of threats.

"Italy expects Russia to respect civilization, order and sanity in Europe.

"If Russia remains peaceful and within her own vast and rich territories, which offer limitless possibilities for work and progress, Italy will not offer the slightest objection.

"But if Communism seeks to advance toward vital zones of European and Italian interests, Italy stands ready to answer in the proper manner."

ADVANCE: Finns Speeding Up Drive Toward Soviet Supply Base

(By International News Service)

HELSINKI—Surging forward under the momentum of a drive which carried them more than 15 miles into Soviet territory, Finnish troops today moved onward to one of Russia's main bases, Repola northeast of Lieksa

After the cutting of the Murmansk-Leningrad railroad, the push through the Repola lakelands was accelerated in order to slash another main Soviet supply route.

With the collapse of the Russian offensive on the Carelian isthmus—at least for the present—only one other major battle raged, the struggle east of Salla

Salla itself, although in ruins from artillery fire by both sides, was reported retaken by the Finns, and the Red army forces—partially cut off by the Finns—were said to be retreating rapidly eastward towards their base at Kandalaksha, where the Murmansk railroad meets the western tip of the White sea.

In weather 40 degrees below zero (FAHR.) two Finnish columns drove eastward and inward, striving to close the pincers on the fleeing Russians.

Having found that hammering its head for five weeks against the Mannerheim line of fortifications on the Carelian isthmus produced no results, the Red army apparently had decided to reorganize and try different tactics.

General Gregory Stern, who was placed in charge of the Carelian offensive ten days ago, is said to be bringing up veteran forces—some of whom took part in the invasion of Poland.

Westinghouse Parades Latest Models In New York Preview

The latest developments in the electrical appliance industry were paraded before the critical eyes of New Yorkers yesterday when Westinghouse presented its Mansfield-made products at a 1940 preview at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel

Mansfield Westinghouse officials who were in New York for the preview predicted a substantial increase, possibly as much as 15 per cent, in the sales of electrical household appliances in 1940.

Estimating the sales of electric refrigerators at 2,065,000 units this year, Frank R. Kohnstamm, sales manager of the merchandising division, said "an even more appreciable increase in electric range sales is anticipated We believe close to 400,000 electric ranges will be sold this year—a gain of 20 per cent over 1939."

Among the products displayed at the New York showing were refrigerators, ranges, water heaters, irons, portable air conditioning units for homes, ironers, toasters, and dishwashers.

Attracting special attention at the show were three models of Mobilaires, a new self-contained air conditioning unit which sells at a popular price.

Mrs. Julia Kiene, director of the Westinghouse institute, pointed out that "industry is geared to meet the needs of the modern housewife" who wants durable equipment that will enable her to do her housework in less time, with less effort and as economically as possible

I. W. Clark, manager of the home building department, asserted [illegible] an expected in-

Hoover Doubles Florida FBI Staff to Curb Hoodlums

SEES RENEWAL OF GANG WARS HIT RESORTS

Henchmen of Al Capone Under Surveillance; Claims Police Have Crime Records.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Director J. Edgar Hoover of the federal bureau of investigation doubled his staff in Miami today to combat "official corruption" and an influx of northern hoodlums.

Gambling casinos and houses of prostitution are "running wide open," Hoover said. Reports by his staff show that "a half dozen or more" members of the Miami Beach police department have criminal records.

Charges by FBI investigators against the policemen range from automobile theft to "impersonation of a law officer," Hoover said. He blamed tolerance of "wide open" conditions by public officials for the attraction of racketeers from large northern cities.

"Any place that has gambling and prostitution always is a mecca for hoodlums and fugitives from justice," he said. "The only way they can spend their ill-gotten money is on gambling and women.

Hoover has ordered 12 additional G-men to Florida in anticipation of intense gang rivalry for control of the lucrative winter resort rackets.

He declined to discuss the justice department's surveillance of henchmen of Al Capone, former Chicago gangster who is scheduled to go to his Miami estate after his release from a Baltimore hospital where he is being treated for paresis. The department has admitted, however, that it was watching former Capone cronies in Florida.

Start Investigations.

Assignment of additional G-men to Florida will result in "thorough investigation" in Miami City, Miami Beach, Dade county, Broward county and Palm Beach county, Hoover said. He has just returned from a tour of the area.

Of 'official corruption," he had the following to say:

"We are making inquiry into indications of similar conditions in other law enforcement agencies in the Miami area, as it may be a contributing factor to the widespread deplorable conditions existing."

"One of the recent developments has been strong indications of local graft incident to operation of gambling houses, confidence men, lotteries, and houses of prostitution."

Find Aged Sisters Nearly Frozen In Chicken Coop

COVINGTON, Ky. —(U.P)— Two elderly spinster sisters who, in their improverished circumstances, made their home in a chicken coop were gaining strength in a hospital today after almost freezing in the sub-zero weather.

Hospital authorities reported the condition of Miss Elizabeth Dorsey, 76, and her sister, Marie, 80, to be "slightly improved." They were suffering from severe exposure.

Elizabeth Dorsey was found unconscious on the floor of their chicken coop home and Marie was in bed. Their makeshift home is on a farm they once owned near Florence, Ky., eight miles south of Covington.

They were found by Paul Du Vall, brother of the farm owner, when he went to the chicken coop to build a fire. He and neighbors had been co-operating in caring for the sisters.

Marie Dorsey asked Du Vall to summon a priest. The Rev. Edmund Priest called the Covington life squad. He said he had visited the sisters several days ago and found them in good health.

Taft Gives 5-Ply Plan to Balance Budget

Up and the Down STREET

Just like their pioneer grandparents, a Mansfield couple left today for adventure in a "new land." But unlike most of the old pioneers both gave up good positions for the new venture. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Tedrick, 116 West Second street, left this morning for Asheville, N. C., where they will scout around for several weeks looking for a suitable location for a summer mountain camp. They hope to locate somewhere near Balsam Gap in the Great Smokies, build their own log cabin and then construct six summer cabins and one large hunting lodge. They took with them, among other things, 20 reservations from Mansfield hunters for next year's season at the lodge. Tedrick has been a salesman for the Sunshine Biscuit company in this district for years and Mrs. Tedrick was manager of the Beauty Center salon. Both resigned the first of the year.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke of the reformatory was in a tight spot at last night's basketball game at the high school between the Tygers and Toledo Libbey. Glattke wanted the Tygers to win and yet didn't want to see the Toledo team lose. The O. S. R. chief was head basketball coach at the Toledo school at the time he was appointed to his present post. Glattke's guest at the game was J. B. Williams, Libbey principal, who headed Woodward high in Toledo when Glattke was a student. Mansfield won, incidentally, 29 to 17.

Some of the courthouse workers were beginning to wonder last night if they might not have to walk home or spend the night in the courthouse. In the frigid weather a number of their cars refused to start and a sort of "relief crew" was organized among the lucky ones to help those who tried in vain to get their cars going.

PURCHASE OF 100,000 TONS OF COAL URGED TO HELP JOBLESS

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Immediate state purchase of 100,000 tons of Ohio coal to provide jobs for miners on relief was proposed by Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert as WPA officials drafted a "spot project" program today to aid distressed communities.

Herbert said he would ask Gov. John W. Bricker's approval of a plan for the state emergency board to make $150,000 available for purchasing coal in Athens county and other relief-harassed mining areas in southeastern Ohio.

The fuel would be used by state institutions or stored for their future needs, Herbert said. Ohio penitentiary here, one of a score of major state institutions, used 115 tons of coal during yesterday's near-zero temperature.

Herbert suggested that the board make the money available for advancing a week's pay to miners hired to dig the coal or arrange for grocer credit until re-employed diggers drew their first wages.

Dr. Carl Watson, state WPA administrator, prepared to divert WPA work, meanwhile, to areas where relief problems were most pressing.

Sherwood forecast a $17,000 relief fund surplus for 1939 and said his department was surveying the financial condition of counties and cities throughout the state.

"When this is completed, we hope to be able to anticipate fund shortages and fill the gap with WPA highway jobs or similar employment," he added.

Sherwood's surplus prediction was based on an estimated $1,966,000 December relief bill, of which the state will pay half, bringing participation for the year to $9,983,000 of the $10,000,000 legislative appropriation. The surplus will be applied to future grants.

The December estimate raised Ohio's 1939 relief bill to $24,983,203, of which the state contributed about 40 per cent. September brought the year's peak of 119,761 cases costing $2,407,725. Sherwood attributed last month's drop to about 94,000 cases to increased industrial employment.

BID ACCEPTED

Columbus Man Buys Equipment of Printing Firm.

Ray Mullin, Columbus printing machinery broker, purchased the equipment of the former Wickersham Printing company, 17 South Walnut street, for $3,300 Friday afternoon at a bankruptcy sale.

The printing equipment sold for less than one-fourth of the amount due creditors of the firm. No attempt will be made to re-open the printing plant and the equipment will be taken from the building, it was said.

Mullin was high bidder for the equipment as a unit. Each piece of apparatus was offered separately, but would have brought only $2,364. Bids were then asked on the entire unit.

The sale was conducted by Atty. Charles Spreng, Mansfield, who was appointed receiver several months ago when the firm was declared bankrupt in district court.

SENATOR SAYS 2 YEARS WOULD SOLVE PROBLEM

Declares President Must Wish, Be Determined to Curb Funds; Hits Budget.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio left a five-point program at the president's doorstep today and contended it would balance the federal budget within two years.

The senator, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, disclosed his budget balancing plan in an address last night to the Chicago Bar association and a national radio NBC, MBS) audience.

Entitled "Mr. President: "Here's how to balance the budget," the speech was a reply to President Roosevelt's offer to award the senator a prize if he could show how to balance the budget.

The president's challenge, said Taft, was an admission that "he is unable to get the government or the country back to normal."

Taft contended the books would balance at approximately $7,000,000,000 within two years if this program were followed:

1. The president must wish and be determined to balance the budget.
2. Eliminate bureaus; reduce number of employes; reorganize.
3. Change method of handling relief, housing, agriculture government loans.
4. End grants for local public works; reduce federal public works; reduce subsidies.
5. Play no favorites; subject army and navy estimates to critical analysis.

A budget balanced under those provisions, he said, would still provide "a reasonable allowance" for relief, old age pensions, housing and soil conservation.

The present tax system, he added, should provide $7,000,000,000 in revenue "if prosperity returns;" otherwise "we will have to increase taxes, undesirable as that is, for the alternative is worse."

Taft said the last budget message to congress "moves very gingerly in the right direction" but that he questioned the "genuineness of the president's new-found desire to reduce spending." He asserted there was "no evidence that the president wants to stop spending."

Turning Calendar Page Will Not Stop Mistakes of the Incredible Era

—By JANE WILLIAMS

SUFFERING from one of those dripping colds id by head, I stayed in bed for three days this week and read millions of magazine and newspaper editorial pages.

All of which gave me an opportunity to get caught up on who thinks what about the ending of one decade and the beginning of another. And after 28 hours, straight reading time, I know what the politicians, educators, editors, sociologists, President Roosevelt, Hugh Johnson, Dorothy Dix, Dorothy Thompson, Inez Robb, Charles Driscoll, Joe Louis, Hitler, Stalin, Chamberlain, Charles Kettering, George Bernard Shaw, the National Chamber of Commerce, Charlie McCarthy, John L. Lewis, William Green, Gracie Allen and Harold Ickes think about the Incredible Era, the Hurricane Decade, through which we have just passed.

It is not surprising that all of us should kick off the bewildering era with all the eagerness of throwing aside a pair of worn-out shoes that have always pinched our feet and been uncomfortable, but it is amazing that so many people can believe that turning the page of a calendar will change the course of a turbulent stream.

* * *

I SUPPOSE it is human nature to be optimistic at any new beginning; to feel that the mistakes of the past ten years are behind us, and that a fine new vista stretches before us, unshadowed by those mistakes.

But it will take more than the flipping of a page on the calendar to erase the dictators, to meet our fantastic national debts, to solve the relief problems, the job problems, to give back to all of us the sense of security in the future and our own government which we once had; and to conquer this growing American menace which is the insatiable demand of "something for nothing."

* * *

CHARLES F. KETTERING, the Loudonville boy who is one of the giants in today's world of science, predicts some fascinating things for the new decade in an exclusive interview for the Kansas City Star. "Ket" predicts that man will make his own climate before another ten years have passed; that planes and cars will have new power; that we will be using glass cloth, and glass that may be bent and curved. But greatest of his predictions is a fascinating picture of cities and factorys without soot, smoke or dirt—all through the use of Diesel motor power.

Now if Mr. Kettering and his engineers could only work out some scientific method by which a small boy could keep his neck and ears clean without washing them!

WE'LL BET that the two years investigation of the Dies committee won't have as much effect on Communism in America as Greta Garbo's picture "Ninotchka." It is one of the smoothest pieces of propaganda that has come out of the Hollywood propaganda factory to date.

Ninotchka as a Communist is so very stern and sad; Ninotchka, living as a capitalist is so gay and carefree. Her three Comrades are such lugubrious lugs in Soviet land, and such merry devils in Paris. Without anyone saying so, you get the impression that national socialism and regimentation is a dreary, soul-cramping business.

The picture probably will accomplish more in putting the skids under Communism here than all the Red-baiting in the world.

SWEET, but slightly asinine, is the gesture of the American Newspaper Guild in considering Mrs. Roosevelt as its president to succeed the late Heywood Broun. Mrs. Roosevelt isn't a newspaper woman and never has been one; probably never will be so long as the Roosevelt fortune holds out. She writes a nice, chatty little column which is widely read because the writer is the wife of the president.

She never has lost her breath and her temper on an assignment; she wouldn't know a "summation lead" from a Gothic initial letter; she's never had to write an important story out of her neck because the principal figure refused to talk; she's never heard anyone yell "Are you writin' copy or layin' an egg?"

And somehow, I can't see Mrs. Roosevelt getting right in there and pitching with the boys with the same determination as though her bread and butter depended on the outcome.

* * *

THIS 17TH Congressional district will never have a public servant who will give more conscientious service than Bill Ashbrook. He wasn't a politician in accepted sense of the word, but he knew by heart all the rules of the political game. When Big Interests attempted to dictate to him, he told them off; and when an obscure constituent who controlled no votes but his own, scribbled a message in pencil on a penny postcard, he was just as sure to get a courteous answer as though he had been a personage. Ashbrook always took his duties as a congressman very seriously and worked like a ditch-digger while in Washington. He was one of those rare public servants who followed the dictates of his conscience and common sense, rather than those of political expediency.

We'll miss him as a friend; we'll miss him, too, as a man whose judgment could be trusted.

FAIR ENOUGH!

U. S. Press Criticized for Not Airing Its Fight With Reds In Newspaper Guild

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The newspaper business has made a mistake in attempting to treat as a private affair its dealings with the organization of employes, most of them white-collar workers, known as the American Newspaper guild.

So little has been published about the nature of the guild and the progress of the dealings between the guild and the companies that, practically speaking, the whole fight, as it must be called, has been kept secret. Meanwhile the labor problems of other industries have received their full due of print.

I am sure that the guild itself has not tried to avoid publicity, so my conclusion is that the publishers have been the bashful ones. Whatever the reason or excuse, the result has been suppression or censorship of this news, and the newspaper industry has suffered as much as the guild from its reticence.

A full statement of the case from the beginning down to date would have apprised the public of an attempt by the radicals, particularly the Communists, in the guild leadership and membership, especially in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, to create a condition in which the guild would be empowered to censor the entire American press.

No more alarming proof of the character of the news coverage and treatment which could be expected under such a closed shop can be found than is provided by the Guild Reporter.

This union paper employs all the characteristic party-line tricks of the Communist and Nazi press, and newspaper men and women in the membership—even enthusiastic radicals among them—admit the Guild Reporter is a grievous reproach to any group professing to stand for fair, objective treatment of news.

Certainly there is no daily newspaper in the country, except the Communist press, which so brazenly abuses the tricks of emphasis, evasion and omission. Hearst, at his worst, was a model of correct editorial behavior by comparison with the Guild Reporter.

The original purpose of the guild was to improve the economic condition of editorial employes, but that purpose has been subordinated to the political aims of the Communists and the New Dealers.

In fact, the guild has aggressively attacked the economic interests of the members by attempting to destroy newspapers which provided employment. In the case of the Chicago Herald-American, the Guild Reporter, week by week, reported with malicious glee, the amount of economic damage that it was inflicting on the paper. Eventually the Herald-Examiner folded up.

Not the worst achievement of the guild, but one of its bad ones, nevertheless, has been the creation of a spirit of bitterness between newspaper workers themselves. Those who refused to join or joined only under economic pressure and still resisted guild policies were deemed to have no rights that must be respected, and first-class writers and reporters have been exposed to malicious abuse by unioneers who are not newspapermen or women at all.

"Hunchback of Notre Dame."

How the love of a grotesque cripple for a dazzling beauty who pitied him leads him to save her life at the cost of his own is the powerful, dramatic theme of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," with Charles Laughton in the stellar title role. The picture opens today at the Ohio theater with a midnight show scheduled for 11:30. The plot deals with the loyalty and sacrifice of a hunchback bellringer in the great cathedral of Notre Dame. Here a beautiful gypsy girl takes refuge from a powerful noble who admires but persecutes her. Because the girl befriended him, the deformed bellringer rescues her from an execution for a crime of which the noble is guilty. Maureen O'Hara, who was discovered by Laughton, depicts the gypsy.

"Nancy Drew, Detective."

The first of the Nancy Drew adventure series, "Nancy Drew, Detective," opens Sunday at the Majestic theater for a two-day showing, with Bonita Granville in the starring role. In this picture the attractive little heroine, with the valuable assistance of Ted Nickerson, her favorite boy friend, succeeds in rescuing a rich old spinster from a gang of kidnapers and in virtually thrusting the kidnapers into the hands of the police. John Litel, James Stephenson and Frankie Thomas are in the supporting cast. The second feature at the Majestic is Bing Crosby in "The Star Maker," a picture based on the life of Gus Edwards, a veteran of the vaudeville era who started many a stage and screen star on their way to fame.

Mansfield News-Journal
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 6, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—even if there isn't a policeman in sight.

The hardest thing about starting a new year is to survive the statistics.

Note that some calendar makers have played safe this year by printing all November Thursdays in black—leaving Thanksgiving to fall where it may.

The Strong Face of Finland

A FACE worth looking at, and explaining some otherwise inexplicable things, is a "portrait study" of President Kyosti Kallio of Finland, widely printed in American newspapers lately. Surely anyone who looks at that face, studying the calm pose, the full forehead, the eyes suggesting cannon muzzles, the ample nose, the mustaches spreading like a thatch over a firm mouth, the cynical goatee and jutting jaw, must feel the quiet strength and relentless persistence that Finland has shown the world in these last few weeks.

Stalin is supposed to be a "man of steel." Perhaps he is, physically. But looking at his picture, and then at Kallio's, you are likely to feel that in a long stare at each other, Stalin's eyes would drop before Kallio's—the big dictator would acknowledge the moral supremacy of the little democrat.

And that face, you might say, is the face of Finland. It shows how and why a little nation of less than 4,000,000 has stood up against a nation of 180,000,000, one of the great world powers, scorning overwhelming odds, regardless of the outcome, in a simple and complete refusal to submit to oppression.

Community Funds Well Supported

THE PEOPLE of 286 cities in the United States did at least one good job in 1939. They filled their Community Chests with more than $50,000,000, four per cent more than they raised the year before and more than they have raised at any time since the depression began. Some cities that had late campaigns have not yet reported, but their final results probably will be in line with the others.

This suggests two reassuring developments. In the first place, the citizens responding so generously to the Community Chest call had the money to give, or felt secure enough to pledge it for future payment. Furthermore, they had come to accept the Community Chest as a yearly civic obligation and to make preparation for it in their own budgets.

During the depression years, when so much government help—both local and national—was necessary, it was feared by some that citizens would lose touch with charitable needs and forget the value of personal sharing in such work. That has not proved to be the case. Just as most men and women on relief are eager to get back to self-supporting jobs in private business or industry, so citizens with jobs take it for granted that they should share in the welfare work carried out by the many agencies of Community Funds.

Attendance Evidences Interest

NOTEWORTHY in connection with this week's meeting of the Mansfield Kiwanis club was the recognition accorded several members for regularity in attendance through a number of years—one having a 15-year record of perfect attendance and another having gone through 11 years without missing a meeting.

With an all-too-common trait of "belonging" to a number of things and participating in the activities of few, if any, of them, such regularity of attendance at weekly meetings merits the recognition given by Kiwanian associates to Howard Glasener, Carlton Fernyak and Milo Hieber.

In Kiwanis, as in similar club groups, it is possible for members who miss a meeting of their home club to "make up" the absence by attending a meeting in another city, which makes possible maintenance of a 100 per cent attendance record even when away on a vacation or business trip. Extent to which members do this provides a dependable index of interest.

Should Battleships Be Bigger?

BATTLESHIPS, which Americans a few years ago were beginning to regard as obsolete, seem to be going up again. At least in size and weight. After focussing attention on those German "pocket battleships" of only 10,000 tons, which nevertheless look pretty big and powerful, a normal American battleship of 35,000 tons seems extremely large.

But that is, or may be, only a starter. For congress recently voted funds to start work on a 45,000-ton battleship. And now a house sub-committee is "exploring the advisability" of building some 65,000-tonners. One congressman even talks of raising this to 80,000 tons. A warship of that size might cost $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.

Naval experts say our navy, as a whole, is the best in the world for our purposes and all-around fighting power. And our naval tradition is conservative. It doesn't seem likely that we're going to plunge all at once into a general doubling of our battleship size.

Advises Study of People

ALL the complexities of the world are in our heads, not in the world," Charles F. Kettering of General Motors tells a gathering of scientists. Both scientists and laymen are too much inclined to forget that. Nature is harmonious; man is not.

Dr. Alan Gregg, director of medical sciences for the Rockefeller Foundation, says the hope of the future for science, and for its effects on man, depends on the scientists' ability to "learn more of the nature of man, and especially of man's nervous system."

Prof. Wesley C. Mitchell of Columbia University adds this comment: "To increase knowledge of human behavior is the most urgent item in the unfinished business of science. If we can come to a clearer understanding of how we behave, perhaps we can learn how to condition men so that their energies will go less into making one another miserable."

In short, as Alexander Pope wrote two centuries ago, "The proper study of mankind is Man." This is also the main theme in one of the greatest books of our time, Dr. Alexis Carrel's "Man the Unknown." Carrel observes that with all our knowledge of the outside world, we know very little about ourselves, and he thinks we might well devote a century or two to this field.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—New Yorkers are constantly being exhorted by a million slogans, ditties, and rhymes to keep the streets clean and remember their manners. Such has been the depth and sweep of this drive that now we have a virtual renaissance in rhyming couplets and polite little Chesterfieldian "hints," and if one were to take the trouble to traverse the town a whole Child's anthology of streetcleaners' verse might easily be compiled.

There is a fine example of the type of couplet that is calculated to "shame" you into being nice up in Ft. Tryon Park, where some really beautiful gardens may be seen, and if you study the placards posted prominently about, you will come across,

"Let no one say, and say to your shame,
That all was beauty, until you came."

Here and there about the city are lovely stretches of green lawn with blunt "Keep Off the Grass" warnings in plain view. But Central Park has discarded this crude reminder for the most polite "Please." That's all . . . just "Please."

* * *

EVEN the trucks that tote away the city's garbage bear a personal note from Mayor LaGuardia, "Your City and Mine; keep it clean." The mayor also takes time off from his municipal duties to dash off little verses for the Subway Sun, a subway one-sheeter pasted in all the coaches for the weary travelers to see. And there are, too, the poetic exhortations on the larger wicker baskets on each street corner, "By the Law Abide; Place Trash Inside," which the more orderly of the citizenry heed.

There is even a form of contest on now to find a slogan that will help people remember not to park their chewing-gum on park benches or carelessly drop it on the sidewalks. Signs and slogans have similarly been employed to eliminate traffic accidents, particularly among children, and last year a book of songs was brought out to this end. Mayor LaGuardia, even as his famous predecessor, Jimmy Walker, likes to dabble in song, and he is the composer of a widely chanted ditty that goes "Sweep, sweep, sweep the street," based on and sung to the old tune of "Row, row, row your boat."

Athens, Greece, not so many years ago strove longingly to recapture some of its ancient glory by getting out a newspaper that was written completely in verse. With all the signs now around town, it appears that we, too, are on our way.

DO YOU remember the original Six Brown Brothers, who played saxophones and who burned up vaudeville 20 or 25 years ago? One of them is driving a cab in New York. The Brown Brothers weren't always brothers and they weren't always original, for they would come and go as the years went by, but the name remained. It was a trade name, almost a corporation, and the Browns literally entranced the country, from the cities through the whistle stops, with their jazzy, reedy sextet arrangements.

Just which of the brothers is now a jehu in Manhattan I do not know. Nor have I his name or his number. I just happened to run across this paragraph in Caravan, quote: "You never know who your driver may be nor what his calling before he drives a hack. Recessions and depressions, wars and rumors of wars have broken down the social set-up of this old land of ours and assembled in it quite a different order.

"We found the other evening that our chauffeur had been a member of the Six Brown Brothers, saxophonists extraordinary, who had headlined the very theaters he was now driving past. Not many evenings before, the man who drove our cab proved to have been a one-time member of the bar who figured in many a criminal case. Another had been a bond broker."

So remember this the next time you feel like getting sassy with your cabby. He may turn out to be your grandfather.

Freezing Used As Cancer Treatment.

—By DR. CLENDENING

ONE DAY a year or so ago a Philadelphia nerve specialist had an epileptic, insance patient who escaped from restraint and wandered out into a cold, raging snowstorm. He had an epileptic attack and lay unconscious for several hours in the snow. He was thinly and poorly clad, and when he was found his body temperature was reduced to about 80. No thought or hope was held out for his recovery, but with surprising absence of symptoms he returned to normal.

But something else happened. He was also suffering with a cancer, and after the freezing the cancer began to disappear. A section was taken out of it for microscopic examination and it was found that the nuclei of the cells had all disintegrated and the cell bodies were being absorbed.

Apparently cancer cells couldn't stand cold as well as the rest of the body cells. It had a selective destructive action on them.

Thus began the freezing method of treating malignant growths. I have just come from seeing the method in action and I think it has been one of the two or three most exciting experiences of my life. I feel as I did when I heard the first report of insulin in diabetes and of liver extract in anemia.

Should Be First.

A week ago I put down, as the most important advances in medicine made in 1939, the treatment of Chronic deafness and the "convulsive" treatment of depressed mental state. But if I had seen this freezing treatment before, I would have put it in first place.

The most astonishing thing is that patients can live at all in these temperatures. The body temperature can be brought as low as 70 degrees F. and kept there for hours, and still the body returns to normalcy with no trace of its arctic experience. The patients all report that the experience is a pleasant, dream-like state, with a succession of happy, pleasant fancies.

Of course, they must be anaesthetized before they are put in the ice bath. They are given barbiturate hypnotics and then a spinal anaesthetic, and are completely asleep when they enter the treatment. During their stay in the ice the position of the body is moved by an attendant. The body temperature is recorded continuously. A small rubber tube is kept in the stomach so the anaesthesia can be kept up.

All this requires apparatus and facilities. It must be carried out with great care and strict attention to technique. Few hospitals are at present equipped to give the treatment. But the results justify the installation of these units everywhere in the country.

Only the advanced and hopeless cases, for which nothing can be done by surgery and ex-ray, are being treated, but apparent cures are frequent. It is naturally too early for the results to be assessed. The cancers may recur, probably will. But one of the first results is to relieve intractable pain. It is the only addition to cancer treatment for 35 years that seems to have solid, practical results.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Carbuncle"

"Carbuncle" is the unhappy name popularly associated with a sore red spot or pimple on the face or neck; but that is how it has ended rather than how it started.

Originally "carbuncle" was applied variously to precious stones of a red or fiery color, including sapphires, rubies and garnets.

This usage was logical: for the word was a diminutive of the Latin carbo coal.

"Carbuncle," in other terms, was a small, red-hot coal!

Hence its figurative application in medical parlance for an inflammatory, circumscribed, malignant tumor, caused by inflammation of the skin and cellular membrane.

Listen, World!

You Can't Label People.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU can't label people as you would vegetables or hardware. And you're only wishing grief on yourself if you decide that people are this or that and then expect them to act accordingly. People are never so simple.

People aren't bad OR good. They are bad AND good at the same time. People aren't wise OR foolish, kind OR cruel, honest OR dishonest, brave OR timid, nice OR nasty. They are All these things within the same nature at the same moment. And the reason is obvious—

We haven't come very far from the jungle yet, we humans. We're still close to our dark animal beginnings . . . still bound by the fears and hungers that rule animal life.

There's mighty little difference between the feelings of a baby man and a baby gorilla. They're both timid and greedy, both selfish and ruthless in getting their own way.

And all through life that brute nature persists, side by side with our taller desires—gorilla struggling against man, man struggling again gorilla.

That struggle constantly confuses you and upsets your plans. It bewilders you in yourself. It infuriates you in the other fellow. You try to escape from it by tying tickets to things. Saying that This Thing is Good, and That Thing is Bad. But it can't be done! For nothing is entirely right—nor entirely wrong.

The most gracious act may root in the most cussed motive—and the most deplorable mess may have sprung from a noble urge. You recognize this fact easily enough in your own life, yet can never get to it in the Other Fellow's. Even if you don't, or can't, run true to form you think he should, and you grow resentful when he doesn't.

Most of your misery comes from this attempt to fit people and life to your own fantastic pattern, instead of taking them as they are. Out of it springs all your loneliness and bitterness. Actually people are much more wonderful as they are than as you'd like to have them—and much more companionable. For if they are a cantankerous mixture, so are you! And there's infinite comfort in this fact, if you'll accept it.

People don't really fail you. They fail your notion of them—which is quite a different matter. But if you'd take the inevitable cussedness and confusion of other people as you take your own, tolerantly, good-naturedly, you'd find amazing co-operation.

You wouldn't be so sad if you knew that millions of others were struggling with the same inner darkness.

You wouldn't be so bad if you knew that every person you see, however proud or pious, was beset by the same temptations.

You wouldn't be so mad at everyone and everything if you knew that the Other Fellow was as muddled as you are yourself—as unable to understood or control his acts.

IF YOU CAN GET ALONG WITH YOURSELF, YOU CAN GET ALONG WITH ANYONE.

QUIT LABELING PEOPLE AND GETTING SORE BECAUSE THEY DON'T FIT YOUR LABELS. ACCEPT THEM AS THEY COME AND TAKE A CHANCE ON THEM. YOU'LL BE SURPRISED!

Ohio Anecdotes

The Prophet.

The fame of Tecumseh, whose warlike endeavors proved so devastating in the Ohio country at the turn of the last century, was rivaled closely by The Prophet, his brother and believed to be his twin.

The Prophet sought to maintain the integrity of the Indian by preaching a doctrine to his followers, including abstinence from alcohol, economic self-subsistence, and banning inter-marriage with the white invaders.

A tribal socialist in his way, The Prophet advocated the common possession of all property, thus emulating his brother's political tenents.

The Prophet gained followers as the word spread that he could envision future events. He did foretell the sun's eclipse in 1806. A mystic, he would go into a death-like trance to receive his "visions."

Born in what is today Pickaway county, The Prophet's and Tecumseh's mother was a Creek squaw, and their father a Shawnee chief.

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

FROM Havre de Grace, Md., and San Juan Bautista, Cal., from Old Lyme, Conn., and New Berne, N. C., from Millsboro, Del., and Hillsboro, Mo., America's law-givers returned this week to their work in Washington.

Among them were 303 lawyers, 79 business men, 21 journalists, 18 farmers, 14 teachers, seven doctors, four widows, three dentists: 328 Democrats, 187 Republicans, three Farmer-Laborites, three Progressives, one American-Laborite, one Independent.

Administration leaders, eager to keep the nation united in the face of war abroad and the Democratic party united to face political battles at home, had hoped this third session of the 76th congress would be short and sweet.

But House Minority Leader Martin promised "plenty of action and battling." And by meeting time, Wednesday noon, Senate Majority Leader Barkley was ready to admit: "I'm afraid it is going to be a controversial session. I don't see any chance of getting away early."

'We Must Be Prepared.'

The session opened, as usual, with a joint meeting in the house chamber that afternoon to hear the president report in person on "the state of the union."

Most of his 3,000 words were devoted to foreign affairs and the impact on America of wars abroad. But let no one think, Mr. Roosevelt warned, "that our government is abandoning, or even overlooking, the great significance of its domestic policies. . . .

"The social and economic forces which have been mismanaged abroad until they have resulted in revolution, dictatorship and war are the same as those which we here are struggling to adjust peacefully at home. . . .

"The overwhelming majority of our fellow citizens do not abandon in the slightest their hope and expectation that the United States will not become involved in military participation in the war. . . .

"But there is a vast difference between keeping out of war and pretending that this war is none of our business. . . .

"The (reciprocal) Trade Agreements act (which expires June 12) should be extended as an indispensable part of the foundation of any stable and durable peace. . . .

"We must likewise be prepared to take care of ourselves if the world cannot attain peace. . . . I am asking the congress for army and navy increases. . . . I am asking the congress to levy sufficient additional taxes to meet the emergency spending for national defense."

'Gradual Tapering Off.'

To meet emergency defense expenses to July 1, the president asked congress for $271,000,000 immediately. And such costs for the following fiscal year were estimated, in his budget message next day, at $460,000,000.

If congress followed his recommendation for additional taxes to cover that, he estimated, the 1941 deficit would be less than half that in sight of this year.

Biggest single expense item next year, as recommended by Mr. Roosevelt, would be $1,800,000,000 for national defense. Others: work relief programs, $1,300,000,000; agricultural programs, $900,000,000; public works and investments, $1,100,000,000; pensions, retirements and assistance, $1,200,000,000; interest on the public debt, $1,100,000,000; regular operating expenses, $1,000,000,000.

While urging "a gradual tapering off" of deficit spending, the president warned that too sharp curtailment of government expenditures in 1937 had been one of the causes of the recession, which followed a 69% rise in the national income during the New Deal's first four years.

At Home

Dies Digest.

While Rep. Martin Dies lay ill at Orange, Tex., last Wednesday, his house committee on un-Americanism reported to congress on its two-year probe, just ended:

1. "Ism" are declining.
2. While leaders of some CIO unions are "more than tinged with communism," most CIO members, including President John L. Lewis, are neither Reds nor Red sympathizers.
3. The Russo-German pact "severely crippled" Red and Nazi operations in this country by "making clear the real nature of all dictatorships."

To turn this "confusion" into "complete rout," the committee asked that its work be continued.

* * *

Cities Save Lives.

When autos killed 97 persons on Kansas City streets in 1934, a safety council rallied newspapers, radio stations, civic clubs, school children and cops behind a five-year program to "save 150 lives." As a result, accident fatalities dropped to 87 the next year, 75 in 1936, 71 in 1937, 69 in 1938 and 32 last year. Total lives saved: 166. Chief remaining hazards, officials reported: drunken drivers, careless elderly pedestrians.

In Clarksburg, W. Va., factory whistles blew Tuesday to celebrate completion of the city's 31st month without a traffic death.

* * *

Now Is the Time.

The Jackson day that Democrats celebrate is the anniversary, not of President Andrew Jackson's birth, but of his victory over the British in the Battle of New Orleans on Jan. 8, 1814. This coming Monday evening, therefore, the current generation of his political heirs will gather by cities, counties and states for another try at eating their party out of the red. At a $100-a-plate dinner in Washington, President Roosevelt will make a "strictly non-partisan" speech. Republican congressional leaders, invited to attend free, smelled a trap.

* * *

Court to Congress.

The supreme court, in three unanimous decisions this week, held only "final NLRB orders—and not orders for elections, or certifications of bargaining agents—subject to judicial review. That's the law, the justices ruled; if hardships result, let complaints "be addressed to congress and not the courts."

* * *

New Year's New Rules.

To keep spies abroad from hiding behind Uncle Sam's pantaloons, the state department is making U. S. passports harder to borrow or forge. Effective this week, they (1) must be renewed every six months, (2) must carry an up-to-date photo of the owner and the thumbprint of a Washington official and (3) can't be used for travel between nations at war with each other.

Ups and Downs

Spy cases investigated by G-Men inf iscal 1939 reached a 15-year peak, and postal revenue set an all-time record. So did the tonnage of American merchant ships under construction during the year. More U. S. warships were built than ever before in peacetime.

The average price of farm products on Dec. 31 was the highest in two years. Residential building in 1939 hit the fastest clip in a decade. Per capita consumption of meat was the largest since 1934. Violent death claimed 365 Americans over the three-day New Year week-end, ac compared with 160 a year ago.

Abroad

Tragedy In Turkey.

Over patched-up wires came reports which, by midweek, pictured the series of earthquakes that racked northern Turkey last week-end as the world's worst natural disaster in five years: 45,000 dead, 100,000 injured. Floods and blizzards, trapping half a million homeless, added hundreds more to the casualty lists.

* * *

Back to the Border.

Russia has never renounced claims to land Rumania grabbed from the Czar's crumbling empire at the close of the World war. And recently it was reported that Bucharest, having decided the district couldn't be held if Reds decided to move in, had withdrawn her troops. Now, possibly emboldened by the news from Finland, King Carol's men are said to be moving back toward the border. If necessary, Premier Tatarescu orated this week, Rumania will defend her northern frontier "to the last man."

* * *

Death In the East.

Casualty figures from the war in China are even more suspect than those from Europe. Here, for what they're worth, are the latest: 1,218,462 Chinese soldiers killed between July, 1937, and November, 1939, according to Japanese, who admitted only 70,000 casualties on their side in that period; 585,760 Japanese killed or wounded in 30 months and 878,640 incapacitated by disease, etc., according to Chinese, who offered no estimate of their own losses.

Smith on Candidates.

Al Smith, who broke with FDR and walked out on the Democrats in 1936, celebrated his 66th birthday recently by polishing up his hiking shoes for use this year if the president defies that "unwritten part of our constitution" which says "two terms are enough for any man."

Who else?

"Garner's all right. . . . Senator Wheeler ought to be a good man. . . . If you want a good, shrewd, able businessman to solve some of the problems growing out of the financial and taxing mess, take Wendell Willkie."

Al Smith? "Too old."

Unity Comes Home.

Britain's bulky, wealthy Lord Redesdale has six very lively daughters, Diana Freeman-Mitford, for instance, wed British fascist Oswald Mosley. Jessica, the "black sheep," eloped with an anti-fascist. Unity, 25, began wearing a swastika armband when Herr Hitler beamed on her as "a perfect type of Nordic beauty."

This week papa Redesdale waited three days beneath the chalk cliffs of a South England port. Unity was coming from Germany, via Switzerland, in a homecoming arranged by Hitler himself. Wednesday she arrived—on a stretcher. A London paper said she had a bullet in her neck.

SERVICE MARKS 95TH BIRTHDAY OF CITY CHURCH

St. John's Evangelical Plans Installation of Officers, Anniversary Sermon.

Tomorrow will mark the 95th anniversary of the founding of St. John's Evangelical church, but Rev. Paul H. Saleste, pastor, said today only a "modest observance" is planned.

However, he said, the congregation is planning an elaborate centennial observance in 1945, according to a policy of the church to have large celebrations only every tenth year.

In 1935, when the 90th anniversary was observed, Dr. G. A. Kienle who served as pastor from 1907 to 1924, returned to Mansfield to be guest preacher at services conducted during the entire week of the observance.

Rev. Saleste said today that during its 95 years' of life the church has had three buildings, the first from 1845 to 1870, the second still standing at the corner of First and Mulberry streets, from 1871 to 1911, and the present stone edifice on Park avenue east at Franklin, which was dedicated in 1912.

Rev. Saleste has served as pastor of the church since 1929, when he came to Mansfield from Des Moines, Ia., where he was head of the department of psychology and philosophy at Drake university.

One of the features of the day's services tomorrow will be installation of officers and teachers of the Sunday school, headed by Conrad O. Diehm, general superintendent, and five assistant superintendents, Fred Haag, Ralph Keil, Thelbert Nikolaus, Helen Berlo and Lillian Conley.

The anniversary sermon will be preached by Rev. Saleste at 10 a. m. tomorrow on the subject, "What Saint John's Church Means to Me." John C. Klinger, director of the choir, will lead the Senior choir in the presentation of Sullivan's sacred anthem, "The Lost Chord."

The Brotherhood will have an anniversary meeting Monday night at 7:30 in the form of Visitors' night, in charge of the president, Chris Geisel.

An annual congregational meeting for the purpose of planning a larger program of service in the church and all its auxiliaries, is scheduled for Jan. 14, at 10 a. m., by Paul Long, chairman of the official board.

Crochets Altar Cloth Depicting Last Supper

A large filet lace cloth, the design of which depicts The Last Supper, will adorn the altar of First Lutheran church Sunday morning for the Holy Communion service. The pattern was crocheted by Miss Marybelle Lewis of 156 Hammond avenue, and required three months of handiwork in her spare time and 1,966 yards of threat to complete. Miss Lewis is shown above beside the unusual piece of handiwork.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, January 7.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is an excellent one for all affairs of clerics and the church, as well as for all sorts of social, domestic and affectional activities. In other matters there is need for great vigilance and discretion, since there are signs of treacherous undermining with sinister import. Beware of entanglements in underhanded affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a favorable year in connection with work and serious matters, which are in line for recognition from elders and superiors. Strictly private interests thrive and give pleasure, but be alert to sinister legal entanglements and intrigues in business relations.

A child born on this day may be studious, industrious and practical, and may attract recognition and reward from its superiors. However, there are possibilities of its having an inherent tendency to being secretive and sordid in attaining its objectives. It may be sly, crafty and tricky.

For Monday, January 8.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is not a very propitious one, holding threats of disruption, distress, inharmony and sudden upheaval, especially in the private relations, domestic, social or romantic. This may be due to ungoverned and impetuous conduct in which there is a tendency to "fly off the handle" with trivial provocation. Beware of tempest, accidents and litigations, also fire or theft.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which turmoil, disaster and disruption may be due to their own unrestrained passions, language and fiery indulgences. These, if allowed to dominate, will bring regrets, violence, accidents and litigation. Diverting such fiery forces and highly-stimulated energies into constructive channels should bring gain. Intimate relations are particularly menaced by want of control.

A child born on this day, while having great talents and abilities, with originality and initiative, may be a "fire-eater," squandering its assets unless given early discipline and direction.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T GET DOWNCAST

THERE will be plenty of times when you seem to be in for a terrific licking, if you play bridge enough. Opponents will pick some pretty unpleasant times to double your bids, just as you will do likewise to them. But when they seem to have you in a tight spot, you need not get too downhearted. Maybe the play will work out better than you expect, if you keep your head up and your eyes open. You may even wind up with a good score on the deal.

South's 1-Club on this deal was passed to East, who doubled. West made a business or penalty pass, then led the diamond K to A. All that the poor declarer could see immediately in sight amounted to two tricks in trumps and one each with his red aces. If he got no more, he would be down three tricks, for a loss of 800 points. But he went to work just the same.

The heart A was taken, then a heart led to the J. East led the club 10 to the J and Q, and West returned the club 9 to the A. The heart 2 was ruffed in dummy, for one trick above the originally counted four, then the diamond 9 sent to the Q. West's spade K was overtaken by East's A, then the spade Q taken, followed by the diamond 10, which South was afraid to ruff, so tossed off a spade. When the spade J was led, West could do nothing but ruff, as he had only three trumps left, the 8, 4 and 3. He had to lead back into the K-7, producing one more uncounted trick for the declarer.

Thus the contract was down only one on a deal which could produce a heart game for East and West.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Please do not think me impertinent," I said, "but I mean just that."

"If ever again you use a word like that between you and me," she said, "I shall not easily forgive you. You, who never saw me before my exile, you, who have given me sanctuary and released me from dependence upon Philip for the very food my daughter and I eat, you to talk of impertinence—you will break my heart!"

She could be extremely melodramatic herself, this stately exiled queen, I told myself. But aloud I only said quietly, with an affectionate smile at her:

"I promise never to use the word again in connection with us. And may I tell you what I mean by my reference to your marrying Philip Veritzen?"

"Please do." she said, adding, with a smile that was almost mischievous, "I am slightly interested in that subject."

"Your adverb isn't strong enough." I told her with an answering smile. "But I hope I can remedy that."

"I can't promise anything," she said cryptically, "but I am open to conviction."

"I shall do my best to convince you," I told her fervently, and paused only long enough to marshall my crowding thoughts into speech.

"I agree with you." I said, "that Philip Veritzen's determination to have your daughter marry his son is due to his old tortured sense of deep injury because of his birth. May it not also be frustration because his romance with you was so tragically shattered?"

She looked thoughtfully into space before answering. Then her eyes met mine again.

"It would be affectation to deny that," she said. "and before everything else, I want to be honest with you."

"You are," I assured her briefly, and then went slowly on, picking my words carefully as I went.

"And we both know," I said, "that it is his dearest wish to marry you."

"Desire or chivalry?" she countered quickly, with a note in her voice which was almost bitter.

"I have something to tell you presently which will effectually answer that question," I told her confidently. "Just now I want to ask you another question. If you were married to Mr. Veritzen, wouldn't you be better able to control the situation between Olina and Noel?"

She smiled confidently.

"If I marry Philip, it will be because I believes he loves me," she said, "always presupposing that I recover my emeralds or am able to get hold of some money from my hapless country so that I will not come to him penniless."

There was such determination in her voice as she uttered the last words that my heart traveled toward my shoe soles.

"But," she went on, "if I married him, I imagine I could manage him so that he would be content to accept Noel's marriage, especially if I could make him see how unhappy it would make me to have my daughter break up another woman's home, even if Olina could do it, which I am sure she couldn't."

"I am sure he would do anything in the world you wished," I answered, "because, make no mistake, he loves you most devotedly."

CHAPTER XL

There had been a note from Ellen on Fabienne's dressing table when she came in with Christine Parsons.

"A meeting will keep me at the house until seven, so I'll have a bite to eat down there and see you before the play," Ellen had written.

When Chris finished her recital with the dramatic announcement of her intention to kidnap her own child, Fabienne said. "You need a rest. Chris. There won't be anyone in the apartment until much later tonight. Let me put you to sleep in my room. I'll give you some tea and you can sleep. In the morning we'll see what plans we can make."

"I have them all made," Chris said in that quiet tone of finality she had used a moment before. "Your being a nurse at the hospital makes the plan perfect."

"I'm not a nurse. Chris." Fabienne said gently. "I'm only a volunteer social worker."

"But they know you and trust you." Chris persisted.

"Oh. Chris, don't you see that this is madness?"

"Madness for a mother to want her child?"

No, that was not madness. It would be mad for the mother of a blue-eyed angel like little Sonny Parsons NOT to want him.

But everything else the driven girl before her said was madness. There was madness in the dilated pupils of her eyes, in the taut drawn expression that whitened the corners of her nose.

Her voice was suddenly tender. "He's so little," she said. "And so like Larry! I've dreamed about him every night for all these two years. I taught him to say ma-ma when he was only a year old. When I went into the hospital to see him, he looked at me and I know he knew me. I stayed at the hospital one night and then I had to go because I didn't want Mr. Parsons to know I was there. I was afraid he'd take him away at once."

Fabienne said, "Come, Chris, you can have a nice cup of tea and you'll rest better."

"The little Persian kitten climbed into Chris' lap. She petted it, without being aware of what she was doing, and went on talking in a far away voice. "Larry will come back. I cabled him. But he can't get here before his father has got the baby on a boat and far away where I can never get him again."

"He'll come back," Fabienne said soothingly. "And then you'll fix things up."

"Im going to fix things up myself. At midnight," she said stolidly, but she got up, urged by the gentle pressure of Fabienne's hands beneath her elbows.

* * *

She went into the bedroom and allowed Fabienne to take off her hat and her shoes, but she wouldn't let her remove her dress until Fabienne said it would be too mussed to appear in. At last she permitted its removal, but she would not allow her to take it from her sight.

She said, "Fab, remember when we were kids and we used to talk how nice it would be to have a mother like Wicky?"

Mrs. Wickford was the house mother at Miss Maidstone's school for Little Girls, where Chris and Fabienne, long-legged sprites of seven and eight, had first met. Mrs. Wickford was broad-bosomed and had a touch that soothed the pains of the young, both mental and physical.

"Then we used to say how pretty our mothers were, as if their being pretty made up for all the things we didn't have."

How well Fabienne remembered the fierce loyalty that covered hurts that were never healed. They were children of divorce, she and Chris. It had been their first bond.

"My little boy is not going to wish he had a mother like a house mother in school. I'm going to be his mother! He's mine and Larry's. He needs us both."

Fabienne went into the bathroom, looked in the medicine chest and found some sleeping tablets. Bill had given them to her when she was ill and overwrought. He said they were harmless and guaranteed to put a patient to sleep for ten or twelve hours. She dissolved one in half a glass of water and brought it back to Chris.

"Drink it," she said.

Chris drank it obediently and leaned back against the pillows.

Fabienne drew a blanket over her.

Chris caught at her hand. "Later you'll help me, Fabienne?"

Fabienne said, "Try to fall asleep now, Chris." Later she meant to bring Bill back after the play and have him look at Chris.

"There's one thing more. You mustn't think badly of Larry."

"I wouldn't dream of it," Fab said dryly, wishing she could get her hands on Larry Parsons, who had let his wife in for all the agony of the last few years.

"Larry's weak. He's poetic, he isn't bad. You don't know how strong-willed his father is. I could always do anything I wanted with him until they got him away—until they—" she dropped suddenly into sleep.

* * *

She was safe until the dawn, anyway, Fabienne hoped, glancing at the clock. She'd barely have time for a quick bath, a bite to eat and she'd have to dress hurriedly. The play was opening at eight-fifteen and Camilla Morse, as well as several others she had invited, were coming down to see it.

Chris and her troubles fled from Fabienne's mind momentarily when she arrived at the settlement house and went directly to the third floor. For this was the night of the first presentation of the Willoughby House Players, a project that was one day to give many ingenues, a great character actor and a star to Broadway.

Backstage, and in the little dressing rooms across the hall, Fagienne paid a visit to each of her cast, telling them how proud she was and what was expected of them.

Outside, in the halls that led to the theater, she greeted the proud parents, friends of the children and her own friends.

Andrew Hardy came, saying it was the first night he had attended in thirty years.

Camilla Morse and her crowd came, saying, "My dear, guess who we ran into downstairs? That pretty girl we saw with Nicky at the Plaza—the—"

"Ellen Chapman?" Fabienne asked smiling. "She's the most important person at Willoughby house. She's the directress. Is Nicky with her? They're supposed to be selling tickets to people like you. By the way, Nicky gets a lot of credit tonight. He paid for our handsome curtain."

* * *

Ken Hemingway, who had been receiving congratulations on his designs for the theater, came up to them, overhearing Fabienne's remark. "Hi, folks! This is a pirate outfit, you know. Hope you left your purses at home. Fabienne is out to get all she can for her theater and her various projects. She hit me up last week for a bunch of boys' books."

Fabienne suddenly remembered Chris. She said, "Excuse me, I want to look for Dr. Mallory."

Bill was not at the play; he had an emergency operation to perform. And so when she got home a little before midnight and opened her bedroom door to find the room empty, she didn't know what to do.

Christine had fled!

Ellen had gone with Ken and Nicky to the latter's apartment and she said she would join them there; she wanted to look in at her own place for a moment and would drive over in her own car.

Her car still was at the door.

Hastily, she pulled off her evening dress and kicked off her sandles. She put on a warm woolen suit, a polo coat and stout shoes. She flew downstairs to her car, praying that she would find Chris where she thought she was.

Stingy With Goals

Yield Only Five Baskets as They Register Fifth Victory On Home Court.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

MIXING a spectacular brand of basketball with a grade school variety, Coach Verne Hoffman's Tygers romped to a one-sided 29 to 17 victory over Toledo Libbey on the Mansfield high school floor last night before a crowd of 1,000 for their fifth win in seven games.

The Toledoans gave indications of offering the Tygers a stubborn battle for a few minutes, but they were unable to carry the pace into the second period.

* * *

Trailing 9 to 5 at the end of the initial stanza, the Bengal squad staged one of the most brilliant offensive exhibitions witnessed at the Tyger lair this season.

* * *

But once they obtained the advantage, the Tygers resorted to grade school tactics. Instead of playing conservative ball in an attempt to protect their lead, Hoffman's troopers started shooting from all corners of the floor without effect.

However, they settled down again late in the game, and presented the kind of ball it will take to again make them factors in district competition.' They yielded only five baskets.

The Tygers held the lead only once in the opening quarter, and that was in the first minutes when Russ Beer counted from a pivot to put his team out in front by a 2 to 1 margin.

Going into the second quarter four points in the red, the Tygers made up the deficit in hurried order. Gene Miller drove into the hoop with a pass from Beer to reduce the margin to two points, and Jack Shiplet followed with a beaut from the side of the court to knot the count.

A left handed hook shot produced by Shiplet a minute later gave the Tygers a 11 to 9 advantage that was never threatened.

The Tygers held the visiting Cowboys scoreless in the second frame, which ended with the home lads in front by a 15 to 9 score.

Mansfield failed to show to advantage on the offense in the third period, but it added to its margin by limiting the Toledo team to a pair of free throws.

The third period ended with Mansfield on top, 21 to 11. Forward Holden of Toledo contributing two points to the Tyger's total when he got his directions mixed and tossed a field goal for the hosts.

Libbey tallied its first fielder in nearly three periods when Moore parted the strings from near the center of the court midway in the fourth frame.

Mansfield coasted in the final period, but offered the visitors numerous scoring chances with bad passes. However, they failed to take advantage of them.

* * *

One of the brightest departments of Mansfield's play last night was exhibited on the defense. The Tyger's offensive work was spotty because of their failure to pass into better shooting positions.

* * *

Diminutive Shiplet's play in his second appearance in a starting role was a feature of the fracas. Bill Herpich also did a slick job of stealing the rebounds under the baskets. Don Rose, being credited with the field goal contributed by the Toledo player because he acted as captain, and Beer led the Mansfield scoring with eight points apiece. Chicolini and Moore were outstanding for the visitors.

The Tyger reserves staged a second half rally to overcome a 11 to 9 lead and defeated the Y. M. C. A. Church league All Stars, 24 to 14, in the preliminary game.

'Washed-Up' Apostoli Decisions Bettini

By GALE TALBOT

NEW YORK —(AP)— Fred Apostoli, heavier and slower than he once was, but a more deadly puncher, is back in pugilism's top drawer today a menace to the 175-pound division.

The San Francisco star, knocked loose from the middle-weight crowd by Ceferino Garcia and widely regarded as "washed-up," returned to Madison Square Garden last night to win a gruelling 12-round decision over Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., former light-heavy king.

The battle was so close a big portion of the crowd of 7,707 roundly hooted the verdict. The referee and one judge voted for Apostoli, the other judge gave Bettina the nod. The Associated Press score sheets had them dead-even.

* * *

Toward the last, both fighters were almost too tired to lift their sodden gloves. Blood flowed from a deep cut on Bettina's lip, smearing the exhausted pair with crimson and even tinting Referee Johnny McAvoy's bald dome.

Bettina, a southpaw, knocked Apostoli down in each of the first three rounds for counts of nothing, eight and nine. Apostoli, throwing his right like a sledge-hammer, half-knocked, half-pushed Bettina down for nine in the 10th chapter. Neither was near staying on the floor.

Despite Apostoli's victory, it is extremely doubtful that promoter Mike Jacobs will give him another shot at Billy Conn, 175-pound title holder. Billy has knocked Fred's ears back twice.

Bellville Whips Madison To Protect League Lead

Bluejays Add Fifth Straight Circuit Win, 38-27, to Drop Rams Into Tie.

AT THE RATE Bill Martin is slipping the ball through the hoop someone may need an adding machine to add up his total at the end of the season.

Sparkplug of the undefeated Bellville high Bluejays, Martin has been rattling the basket consistently as his teammates keep marching along the victory path.

The lanky center's latest exhibition was presented on the Madison planks last night as Bellville chalked up its fifth straight Richland county league victory by handing the Madison Rams a 38 to 27 beating. It was the Bluejays' seventh win of the season.

Martin, who has averaged better than 15 points in county league competition, tipped in 17 markers as Bellville staged a thrilling last-half rally to maintain its two-game advantage in the county championship race.

Coach Will Miley's crack combine encountered stiff opposition from the inspired Rams for two periods, but set loose its smooth scoring machine after the intermission.

* * *

Bellville hopped into an 8 to 3 lead in the initial quarter, but found itself trailing 10 to 9 when the clubs left the floor at the half. Madison's stout defense limited the Bluejays to a free throw in that second chapter.

* * *

Outpointing the Rams, 17-9, in the third frame, the invaders went into the final quarter sporting a 26 to 19 lead.

Howard Hamilton and Don Palm added eight points apiece to the Bellville attack. Doug DeNero topped the Rams with eight tallies.

The Madison reserves swamped the Bellville seconds, 14 to 4, in the preliminary attraction.

Shaffer Scores 22 Points for Lexington.

SCORING every one of the 11 points registered by his team in the opening period, Bill Shaffer led Coach John Rees' Minutemen to a 34 to 24 victory over Union in a Richland county league game at Lexington last night.

The victory enabled the Minutemen to drive into a tie for second place with Madison, beaten by Bellville.

* * *

Although packing a 11 to 6 lead at the end of the first period, the scrappy Union Indians came back swinging their tomahawks in the second quarter and knotted the count 15-all just before the finish of the half.

* * *

Union gained a 17 to 15 advantage in the opening seconds of the third period for their only lead of the game. Held by the visitors in the second quarter, Shaffer again started scoring after the half and paced the Minutemen to a 22 to 17 lead.

Shaffer scored 22 points for individual scoring honors, but Adams of Union was not far behind with 15.

The Union seconds won over Lexington, 15 to 11, after the half ended 3 to 3.

Lucas Gains Share of Second Place.

LUCAS high jumped into a three-way tie with Madison and Lexington for second place in the Richland county league title race last night by handing the Ontario high Warriors a 33 to 22 defeat on the Ontario court.

The Cubs, in registering its third win, grabbed the lead in the opening period and successfully turned back every Ontario threat to gain the verdict.

* * *

Coach Orv Kibler's proteges tried to fight the invaders on even terms in the opening half, but lacked the scoring punch to overtake them.

* * *

Lucas took a 6 to 2 lead in the initial quarter, was leading 17 to 12, at halftime and 27 to 16 when the third stanza was over.

Sowash set the individual pace with 10 points, while Sauer was high for Ontario with six markers.

In the preliminary contest, the Ontarion reserves dusted off the Lucas seconds, 19 to 9.

Hand Bushnell First Defeat To Gain Title

Bowman Cagers Spring Upset to Win Y. M. C. A. Tourney by 14 to 13 Score.

Bowman street school's youthful hoopsters are going around today with chips on their shoulders.

Unable to successfully get their fast-breaking attack to functioning in previous games, these determined youngsters hit their stride yesterday to upset the dope bucket by edging the heretofore undefeated Bushnell quintet, 14 to 13, in the championship finals of the Y. M. C. A. grade school tournament on the Y court.

* * *

Bushnell, coached by Harold Beach, went into the finals sporting a nine-game winning streak, but found it almost impossible to throw its potent scoring attack into action.

* * *

One of the principal reasons for Bowman's victory was the club's ability to halt the high-scoring antics of Robert Jones. Jones, Bushnell center, who scored 23 points in his last game, was rushed on most of the attempts. Jones was held to seven points.

In the consolation finals, Hedges tripped Prospect, 13 to 6.

Husband Ordered By Court to Kiss His Spouse Daily

(By International News Service)

PITTSBURGH—A kiss a day keeps the policeman away.

That, briefly, was the decision of Magistrate Anthony Lucas recently when he sentenced John Christ, 52, to kiss his wife, Julia, each day for a year.

Mrs Christ told the Magistrate: "I haven't been kissed for a year. I'm a kissless wife."

She added that her husband had been drinking and abusing her. Lucas asked if she objected to her husband kissing her. She replied:

"Why, no. He's always drunk and has made a nervous wreck of me."

The Magistrate turned to the husband, and asked:

"Will you take a pledge to stop drinking, and abusing your wife and to kiss her at least once each day, for a year?"

The husband agreed and the couple left the courtroom together.

CHINESE SEND WAX TO OHIO

MEDINA, O.—(AP)—Today's arithmetic problem:

Take a ton of beeswax, divide it into 20-pound packages, mail three parcels a day from war-embroiled China, and the result is the delivery time for a huge order being filled to the A. I. Root company, bee supplies firm here.

Root officials said the wax was of fine quality. The Chinese shipper prepays about 25 cents a pound postage. Parcel post regulations limit packages to 20 pounds

Petroleum Shares Come In For Attention on Heels of Production Report.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Slightly lower tendencies prevailed in today's early stock market.

Petroleum company shares came in for attention as trade sources estimated domestic crude production in the current quarter may approximate 335,000,000 barrels, or about 10 per cent more than in the first three months of 1939. Consumption was expected to show an increase of 6 to 8 per cent over last year, so that only a moderate seasonal inventory expansion is anticipated.

Broadening of retail sales throughout the country were further exemplified by federal reserve figures disclosing department store distribution in the final 1939 week topped the same period in the preceding year by 8 per cent. Principal gains were reported for the districts of Philadelphia, Cleveland, Atlanta and Dallas.

Brunswick Officials Enter Pleas In Ashland Court.

ASHLAND—Two Brunswick officials who are under indictment for criminal libel, appeared before Judge H. E. Culbertson today and entered pleas of not guilty.

They are Walter L. Petchler, constable, and Mark M. Lutz, justice of the peace, who were indicted by the Ashland county grand jury last fall. Petchler's trial was set for Jan. 29. Bond of $500 was continued for both.

The action against them grew out of the suspension of Robert M. Greenlun, superintendent of highway markings, on alleged false affidavits signed by the two Brunswick officials.

Greenlun has since been dismissed by Robert Beightler, director of the state highway department, and his appeal to the state Civil Service commission is pending.

Europe Searches For Reason For Replacement of Army Chief by Britain.

often reflects the government's views and never has been particularly friendly toward Hore-Belisha, said that "thanks largely to him," a new British army was "in a fair way to come into existence."

Military chieftains had looked askance at him, however, since he took office in 1937 as a much-advertised "new broom," and placed the accent on youth by retiring so-called "deadwood" generals.

He got better pay, pensions and living conditions for enlisted men, sought equal opportunity for all ranks, and furthered the mechanization of a horse-loving army. He was extremely popular with the enlisted men.

Held In High Esteem.

The war ministry change overshadowed the others, for the proverbial man in the street regarded Hore-Belisha as second only to Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, in prosecuting the war against Germany.

A commentator in Labor's Daily Herald said Prime Minister Chamberlain had "started a blitzkrieg of his own," and inquired, "What on earth has been going on behind the scenes?"

The Express said the choice of Stanley as Hore-Belisha's successor was "a most unsatisfactory appointment."

Stanley, also 43, is the son of Lord Derby, war secretary in 1916-18 and 1922-24.

Germans Claim War To Be Intensified.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN — Intensification of Great Britain's prosecution of war against Nazi Germany was predicted in high Nazi circles today as a result of the resignation of Leslie Hore-Belisha as British secretary of state for war.

German spokesmen attributed Hore-Belisha's removal to a rift between Britain and France over conduct of the war, although no evidence was produced to substantiate this theory.

At the same time, the German government let loose a blast against Oliver Stanley, Hore-Belisha's successor, labelling him as Britain's leading "German-hater."

Germany saw in Stanley's appointment a determination by Great Britain to expand the war in both military and economic fields at the possible expense of neutral nations. Spokesmen tied up the cabinet shift with the Scandinavian situation, while the press spoke ominously of developments to be expected if Britain attempts to gain a military edge over Germany by establishing bases in Sweden, Norway or Denmark.

Stanley, a son of the Earl of Derby, has always been looked upon in Berlin as a "war agitator." Before hostilities broke out in September, according to authentic German quarters, he was always active in pushing and preaching a political and economic onslaught on Germany.

Now, according to the German view, he is in a seat of power and able to apply ruthlessly "all his principles of economic and military warfare preached in peacetime."

At the same time, Berlin quarters declared, Hore-Belisha, long vilified here as Britain's "leading Jewish war-monger," will be able to play an important behind-the-scenes role, his activities unhampered by the restrictions of cabinet office.

The German government was equally caustic in commenting on the appointment of Sir John Reith as head of the British Ministry of Information. Reith was always "hostile" to Germany, official quarters declared and reflected this attitude during his long tenure of office as chief of the British Broadcasting corporation.

'Thin Man' Powell and Movie Starlet Start Honeymoon

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—The super sleuth of the cinema, William Powell, 47, was honeymooning on a Nevada dude ranch today with his third bride, 21-year-old rising movie starlet Dianna Lewis.

She's comely, auburn-haired, blue-eyer, weighs 100 even, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lewis of Asbury Park, N. J., veterans of vaudeville, and not so long ago was the No. 1 heart interest of that gay young blade of the films, Mickey Rooney.

The surprise elopement and marriage of Powell, who has been on the screen for 20 years, and Miss Lewis, whom he had known only three weeks, created quite a stir in the film capital.

Powell returned to movie work only recently after a year's serious illness. He again is essaying the detective roles that brought him so much popularity in the "Thin Man" and similar roles.

Miss Lewis must be back in Hollywood Monday morning to start work in an Eddie Cantor picture in which she has the feminine lead.
